

Hubert Aiwanger

Bavarian Minister of Economic Affairs, Regional Development and Energy and Deputy Bavarian Prime Minister

since November 12, 2018

- Hubert Aiwanger was born in 1971 and grew up in Rahstorf in the district of Landshut in Lower Bavaria.
- After passing his A levels and finishing his military service, in 1991, he began to study agricultural sciences at the University of Applied Sciences of Weihenstephan.
- In 1995, Hubert Aiwanger successfully finished his studies as a graduate agricultural engineer and started working at his family's farm.
- Since 2006, Hubert Aiwanger has been Bavarian Chairman and since 2010 German Chairman of the party of FREIE WÄHLER.
- In 2008, Hubert Aiwanger was elected for the first time to the Bavarian State Parliament; until October 2018, he was Group Chairman of the parliamentary group of FREIE WÄHLER in the Bavarian State Parliament.
- Since November 12, 2018, Hubert Aiwanger has been Bavarian State Minister of Economic Affairs, Regional Development and Energy as well as Deputy Bavarian Prime Minister.